

Wednesday 17th September 2014

We are learning to adapt to our audience.

Little Weirdd Gazette

Thousands of people all over Britain are waiting for news about the war. The German and ~~the~~ British armies are preparing ^{with great} ~~for it~~. Many children have been evacuated out of London. Some ~~of~~ ^{of the} lucky children are left in ~~the~~ London and some will be evacuated next week. Everyone is waiting for the first bomb, the first gunshot. Many families are upset about leaving their children in someone's hands that they ~~do not~~ ^{do not} know if they may never ^{even} see their children again!

The town ~~is~~ ^{has been flooded} with many evacuees. There is an ~~the~~ ^{an} argument about how the evacuees act and behave. Some say they are ungrateful, wild, homesick and unbarbarians. While others think they are polite and charming. The town has to make way for more evacuees (to come). Tom Sabley said "My evacuee is a polite little lad and is on the ship side of things."

his name is Willie, ask him what he thinks of me." Willie replied "He is big but friendly and looks after me better than my own mother did."

What may the future hold for little Weirdd? If the town will have to pay for more ration for their evacuees. Also, the farmers will have extra pressure to ~~make~~ ^{grow} more crops and build more extra rooms in houses and cottages.

I have enjoyed the audience more by sharing the town's feelings and characters feelings.

😊 A superb article showing a clear understanding of the reader.

Changed
rhetorical Question
appropriate
changed
contrast appropriate
rich
rich
rich