L.O. To ~~use~~ use fronted adverbials

FRONT.

Range of conjunctions and sentence openers

Dear Diary,

What just happened to me was astonishing!

One ~~early~~ early morning, I saw a colossal ship that made my jaw drop in astonishment. Should I go? Nervously I ~~was~~ moved closer to this mysterious ship that appeared without warning.

It's quite chaotic on the ship, cooks, cleaners, a nosy ~~spiky~~ sailor, and a medic, oh and two fishermen. One is eighty six, but there are things I dislike on the ship. One of the things I don't like are that the whole boat smells of rotten fish, and the other thing I hate is that splinters are all over my seats.

But a few hours later, let's just say "problems" happened.

A storm with strong winds had made about half the crew members sea sick (it includes me?) Frightened, I had run to my small bed and hid in it for a really long time. Luckily, we made it out of the storm.

Finally, ~~we~~ we were seeing England, gazing in. I heard loud noises, loud cars, just, loud everything! I was nervous to see about, one or ten thousand*.
How could I make friends with all of them people!

Well, it was quite an adventure!
But also, I may never go back to the forest. Oh, it just looks so modern!
