L.O. We were learning to use fronted adverbs.

Dear diary.

Today when the sun rose up I was working when I saw 5 boys 50 tall shadows. One of the new visitors said "Do you want to come to Ingham?" I said yes I always have and I always will. 2 seconds later I was surrounded by many many visitors I could not get up and I ran forward. 3 mins later I hit my head on a greasy long back wall I throbbed. I slipped over to find some food to bring with me when I came back with bread of dragon food the captain said no were wilder you fish! OK I replied what do I do with this then as I said what they took my food out my hands.

He said we have delicious salmon and rich dressings you can have instead. OK fine I said as I worked up the creaky trap and held on the greasy bar. We left the boat I waved to all my family and friends. I soon lost the nice visitors and I wandered in the ditch and I had screaming and shouting no no cut water, said one. I was getting poorer and I shared but I didn't say anything of it. I didn't want to be food. The sea my page to get closer, but I was getting the wind started swirling thunder seemed in my ear. Everyone but ever echept me I heard every one I felt so fearless. I think I was brave for staying on that boat.

As soon as I heard the boat out shout loud and I see land so close. The sea ~~was~~ stopped slowly and we moved the way to land slowly. When we reached land I was astonished I said "so this is London". I ran to the visitors and I said thank you. I was astonished as I walked on the boat and I'm in London now it is amazing. London is so much better than the land could ever be and I love London so much. I will live here forever and ever. Be diary see you later hope you liked my story. I really hope you liked my story. Be diary see you soon.
