

We start this week's newsletter with the lovely news that Mrs Davis is expecting her third baby in July. All of the Saxon community send their congratulations and best wishes to the Davis family at this very exciting time.

Reopening of Schools

We know that the Government plans to announce their roadmap for the reopening of schools on the 22nd February. We will continue to monitor information sent in half term but, again, we expect to learn the Prime Minister's plans at the same time as parents do. As soon as we have the information we will be able to put a plan in place and communicate it with parents.

Half Term Activities

Earlier this term, we sent home a document which was also uploaded to Google Classroom titled 'Additional Learning Activities'. Whilst we are not expecting any learning to take place over half term, parents and children may be interested in some of the activities that were shared, (particularly the last two pages) as opportunities to keep busy over half term remain limited. The list of ideas is attached to this newsletter for ease. Many museums etc. continue to offer virtual tours and activities for children too.

KS2 Reading Challenge

It's fantastic to see how much the children are reading and enjoying the Get Epic website. We know lots of children are enjoying reading books offline too, which is great! Having reviewed the data this week, we seem to have got in a little bit of a muddle with the tracking of books read so have adjusted the figures below to reflect this week's Get Epic totals, as well as including books teachers know children have read offline. We will now also just record the number of books read each week.

Class	Total Books Read
