L.O. We are learning to use expanded noun phrases.

It was a normal day on the ship. I was My stomach was rumbling with pain and I was getting cold from sitting at the top of the ship whilst on look out. ~~Then~~ Then finally it was lunch time. Everyone sat around the table when the snowy, pure white clouds that were floating above my head turned to a hideous grey. The boat rocked from side to side.
~~Boxes~~ Boxes tipped over and one nearly hit me. Rain gently poured from the clouds that blocked out the sun.

The wind got stronger and ~~the~~ the spine tingling thunder boomed ^{after} every time ~~the~~ lightning had struck. I was petrified but I rushed to help. The strong, howling wind that started to form a tornado nearly tipped the boat over. All of a sudden a blast of lightning ~~but~~ burnt the sails sails to a crisp meaning ^{everyone} we would have to row the rest of the way. My ~~heart~~ heart was pounding in my chest. Panicking crew members were running around the ship like headless chickens. Some of the cooks were clinging onto ropes whilst trying to save their ~~their~~ their pots and and pans. The ^{dirty} wooden boxes that bobbed across the waves were full of the cooks pans.

The storm was finally over. Crew ~~members~~ members were scrambling to their feet and ~~falling~~ slipping on the soggy deck. The swirling, ~~dark~~ dark clouds that held lightning dispersed showing the bright sun once more. Seas of darkness turned into a sapphire blue. The ^{heavy} rain stopped and the shining sun dried up every last drop. Everyone was relieved by that the storm was completely over.

E.B.I. To ~~use~~ use ~~pre~~ prepositions in our expanded noun phrases.
