

your writing is coherent and not repetitive.

Monday 4th November 2019

We are learning to clearly and fully explain our thinking.

Today at 9:31 am. Wednesday 9th October 2015,

I was <sup>preparing</sup> getting ready for the war to protect my city, <sup>(so)</sup> I called London, ~~especially my family~~. Before I left, I gave my daughter a great big hug and said, "I will always be with you" no matter what. And as I was leaving, I heard a lot of good byes and good lucks.

As we just started our journey, we were being shot at by enemy troops from the left and right. We ducked <sup>4</sup> before we <sup>was even</sup> got shot. and quickly got our guns from the floor.

We quickly grabbed our guns and <sup>sp</sup> jumped out <sup>all to bot</sup> and started to shoot. <sup>3</sup> We ~~took~~ shot <sup>at bot</sup> of the enemies and the last three quickly jumped on their motor bikes and drove to base.

As the enemies ~~as they drove~~ drove their <sup>5</sup> bikes to base. We followed them from behind <sup>6</sup> and ~~they did not~~ notice we were right behind them.

* from behind the car door

* and immediately started to attack the enemies

3/4 We shooted half of the ~~at~~ group and the other half of enemie soldiers quickly hoped on their rvs and quad bikes <sup>and</sup> drived to their base as quickly as they can to where ~~their army~~ the other enemie troops.

Superb editing to enhance the detail for the reader.

EBI Double check your tenses i.e. drove instead of drived.