We are learning to ensure consistency in our writing.

Dear Mia (friend),

Hello Mia, guess what! Mother took me to the town center to say goodbye to the soldiers going to war! She said we had to show our faces as it was ~~respect~~ respectful. I understood, but I already wanted to go as at school they said there would be a marching band! I thought that was very ~~exciting~~ ~~exciting~~ ~~exciting~~ exciting! We went there and saw the mayor, soldiers and a few people I know. My friend ~~friend~~ from school, Tom, was there, but I didn't say hello properly. The ~~soldiers~~ soldiers took lots of things: weapons, food, water and much more. The mayor even waved at me!

~~ermore~~, I have ~~also~~ heard, that we have to follow certain ~~rules~~ rules now war has started. Like having things called blackouts on our windows, but I suppose you ~~also~~ already know that. ~~Another~~ Another thing we have to do is build a shelter in case Britain drops bombs on us. That would be very scary! But, I doubt that would ever happen. Mother was reading the newspaper this morning and it said 'Things to look out for in the war!' She continued to read it. I ~~was~~ am sure the war will only last for a couple of months anyway though.
