We are learning to proofread for punctuation errors, including use of semi-colons, colons, dashes, punctuation of bullet points in lists, ~~use~~ use of hyphens.

Rose Blanche ~~as~~ saw all of the sad, hungry faces and knew that something had to be done. She spent all day, and all night planning her big mission to help rescue all of the Jews that had been captured. For days, she had been saving food from dinner, taking some of what she had got and was giving it to the younger children locked up in the place, which seemed like ~~the~~ ^{their} worst nightmare. As Rose was planning, what she didn't know was that Hitler had had complaints about her giving food to the ~~the~~ ~~to~~ people locked up, so he had actually sent his men to do some spying on her.

Rose trained and trained until she became ready to become a boy in an army. ~~because~~ Her plan, was to dress up as a boy and become a guard and set them free. She became a guard but did lots of training to make sure she did not get caught. After ~~a~~ a few days, she knew that she was ready, she knew that if anything got in her way, she could fix it. Rose was so keen to do it and was almost about to get in, but in the blink of an eye, a bundle of soldiers turned up and searched around.

~~got~~ ~~Rose~~ Luckily, she was discussed as a boy so the soldiers went to go and search ~~the~~ the village for her. For around ~~a~~ a month, every day Rose would come and dress up as a boy to get trained everyday after school. Once Rose had arrived everyone started to congratulate her because she had got into the actual army. (Although Rose had got into the army) She still needed to do more ~~work~~ ^{work} ~~training~~ and go on some more training before she could become a full army guard.

Finally, the time had come, Rose was ready to be a guard for where everyone was locked up. Rose's plan was going extremely well. She had got a job working as a guard, she was allowed to have all the access to the keys and her plan was finally going to work out, but before she knew it, soldiers had turned up. Rose had no choice but to let everyone go before it was too late. The second ~~the~~ the key twisted, a siren went off, as loud as anything they had heard before.
