We are learning to use the appropriate voice.

Dear Diary,

Today has been the ^{best} day of my whole life! I came down stairs and Tom says "Happy Birthday!" I knew what a birthday ^{was} but I never knew what was so special about it. For my breakfast I had 2 rashers of bacon, scrambled egg and some beans on toast. After this I got some boxes ^{presented} onto the table. I went closer and then Tom said "You gonna open the them or what?" I said "Happy for me!" and he said they were!

I opened the first one, it was a massive box full of games! Another one had some pretty clothes in, and one had a new book... A new one! I never owned a book before. Except for the Bible, but that was old and someone else had it before me. After this I thought it was all done, Tom pulled out the biggest box I've ever seen. It was my own sketchbook pad with paints. Them paints even had my name carved in them.

When I ~~just~~ finished school, I went to the church and I drew a picture of a grand eagle. Zach soon came and saw the picture. Even though I tried to hide it. Zach told me to hurry up and follow him. We came back to Mr Tom's. There was a big surprise with eat cake and lots more. I can't believe what my eyes were seeing!

It was my birthday!

I think I used the appropriate voice, as I managed to use the grammar and vocabulary that Willie would use on a daily basis. Overall I have ^{met} used the learning objective because I used the appropriate voice ~~was~~ multiple times.

☺ I agree Zayne, you have used the appropriate voice correctly to convey Willie's character. EBI Take care with your punctuation to support the flow of your writing.
