We are learning to use the appropriate form.

Should children be left alone at home.

Children should not be ~~left~~ left alone as it is unsafe and ~~dangerous~~ dangerous for them. Most children think it is fun to be home alone, as they can do what ever they want. ~~Yet~~ Sometimes, it could lead to them being injured. For example, if children were to boil the kettle, they may scald their arm. ✓

When ~~per~~ parents are not there ~~to~~ telling you to stop doing something, it makes children angry and ~~frustrated~~ frustrated. ^{whereas} ~~whereas~~, when left alone they can do those dangerous things without the fear of being ~~told~~ told not to. Another advantage is that you would be able to play with friends at any time.

Most children know not to set the house on fire or drive the car, yet ~~some~~ some still do. This could lead to them being hospitalised or becoming ill. All parents have to ~~clean~~ clean and may use bleach or toxic sprays and if a child drinks them, they could die. For instance, a child may mistake ~~a~~ a heat ache tablet for a sweet. ✓

~~It is~~ ~~is~~ ~~it~~ ~~is~~ ~~not~~ ~~outside~~, children would play outside. ^{weather} ~~whether~~ ~~whether~~
If they are not ~~carefully~~, they could be taken by a stranger; then the parents would ^{feel} upset, worried and responsible.
They may never see their child again and would ~~regret~~ leaving them alone for those five minutes.

Finally, they could start talking to a stranger online and give them personal information about ^{ei} ~~themselves~~. Without the parents ~~knowing~~ their child ^{themselves} could be taken. This is another example of how their child could be ~~taken~~ taken.
